Theme

The Ass-ential Stevenson is your chance to enjoy an unforgettable experience along a section of what Forbes Traveler considers to be one of the world's most famous travel adventures - The Robert Louis Stevenson Trail. This green hiking adventure is tinged with a bold hint of grey, as you enjoy a fabulous walking break in the Upper Loire Valley accompanied by a long-eared and four-hoofed companion - a donkey.

You hike approximately 27 miles/ 42 kms of the RLS trail over three days through stunning Haute Loire countryside. Accompanied by a local ass, who is well-versed in the region's geography and traditions, you thus replicate another key condition of the trek undertaken by the Scot 132 years ago. So it's quite literally following in the footsteps, and hoofs, of Robert Louis and Modestine, with the exception that you stay in welcoming accommodation en route and don't get to sleep alongside your asinine friend - who, by the way, is well-fed and cared for by each host along the way.

The Ass-ential Stevenson commences with a little training session in Le Monastier and finish in the remarkable granite cité of Pradelles, from where your onward or return journey is easy. If you possess well-honed leadership and management skills and are looking for another domain in which to apply them, then this is the short break you have been looking for.
